A Cyclist Head Blows Out.

The Sunday passenger train met with an accident last Sunday near Weatherly. When going down the heavy grade west of town, the locomotive dashed ahead at great speed and the engineer being unaccustomed to grades of this character, he reversed the engine in a too rapid manner, the result being the steam chest blew out a portion of which went flying through the end window of the car next to the locomotive, and almost striking Richard Jones of Hazleton, who was a passenger, on the head. The steam flow in various directions, the passengers became greatly excited, and for a time all was confusion. The engine was stopped by the train hands who were making every effort to bring the train to a halt. This was accomplished after much difficult labor. Another locomotive was procured and the train taken to its destination.—Hazleton Plain Speaker.

Lehighport the Champions.

Last Monday our base ball club won the Carbons, of Mauch Chunk, the championship of Carbon county, in one of the most brilliantly contested games ever played in this section. It took ten exciting innings to decide who should be entitled to the honor. The battle was principally between the batteries, in which Koons and Brinkman excelled. Koons proved to be a "puzler" for the visitors, and succeeded in striking out his opponent (Mack) every time he went to the bat, and Brinkman, the "dandy" catcher, gave him noble support.

Reichard made very difficult right and left handed catches. The home team gained a good lead by heavy batting, but through several errors of some of the fielders, the visitors ran their score up and in the ninth inning tied them. Excitement ran high, some cheering and others holding their breath. The Carbons went to the bat in the tenth inning and scored one run amid great applause. Next Lehighport went to the bat and pounded Mack freely, scoring two runs with only two men out. Then it was pandemonium. Hats and coats flew through the air and 700 throats nearly split themselves in their prolonged shouts of applause. Brinkman was carried around the ground on the shoulders of some of the enthusiastic crowd; Koons and the other players were showered with congratulations. The score was as follows:
